I won’t deny that Vs. Dave and Bambi has a very interesting spot in my life. I’ve gotten a lot of good things out of it, and a lot of bad things out of it. Even though I’ve been pessimistic about it I’ll try to explain the best of both worlds for me.

Vs. Dave and Bambi is a touchy subject for me, I don’t really enjoy talking about it. It’s a mix of the contents of the mod itself and the effects of the mod’s existence that still affect me to this day. I’ll acknowledge the big thing, its presence in the FNF modding community as a sort of punching bag. Although it doesn’t affect me nearly as much anymore, it's still a little annoying that this is still a big thing in that community. You have somebody post a fanmade song and then somehow FNF fans still get incredibly pissed off at it, it’s funny to watch honestly. How can you be so willing to intentionally stay ignorant about something you hate so much? Almost like you want to continue this behavior, but that discussion isn’t relevant.

I don’t even think my own “fans” like this mod sometimes. I get a lot of requests or inquiries about old content and other unrelated things and it’s kind of polarizing and overwhelming. I know there’s a lot of people who genuinely do appreciate what I have to offer in the present and I do appreciate them, but it feels like a loud minority somewhat. People seem to prefer the unpolished and mindless things I did as a younger and less mature person and I just never understood it or why there was a preference for it.

I don’t personally think it’s worth preserving. It’s not the same kind of “history” as, say, your old cringe baby photos or some major historical event. Those things either have great personal value to you or are worth preserving due to their significance in history. Old Vs. Dave and Bambi content has none of these, they do not benefit anyone nor do I get any personal enjoyment out of it, in fact it basically ruined my life. All people know me for is this old mod I made when I was 13, not even the newer content, just the old shitty content. This is the reason I went back on everything, so I could stay under the radar and make something greater as a more mature artist.

I’ll say I got some good things out of it though. It kickstarted my music career, I met a lot of good people from it, and there’s several people out there who are genuinely interested in what I put out. If it weren’t for this mod, I probably wouldn’t have any of that, so it’s like a blessing and a curse. Not only did it ruin my life, it also changed it for the better.

That’s my thoughts about the mod and the nearly 5 years I’ve had to deal with it. I feel like some of you might get something good out of hearing this information. This is the last you’ll hear from me about Vs. Dave and Bambi, as I am off the project and no longer actively participate in development. This isn’t the end for Dave and Bambi though, I have much bigger things coming up for it that I hope to showcase very soon. I love these characters and this world we’ve built up, I can’t get rid of it just like that.